

Target Market Summary

Brand: _____

Resources used:

- ☐ Internal company consumer research — quantitative and qualitative
- ☐ Panel data
- ☐ Internal company knowledge
- ☐ Secondary data including researching through internet, news, journals
- ☐ Results of prior marketing programs
- ☐ Results of heavy user analysis
- ☐ Other: _____
- ☐ Other: _____

Step One: Document information on the target market and associated implications.

KNOWLEDGE CATEGORY	INFORMATION	IMPLICATIONS/LEARNINGS (What does the information tell you; what does it lead you to think about the target market?)
Demographic information Age range, geographic areas, income, education level, occupation, ethnic background
Stages of Life Information Single, married, new home owners, full house, children in home and their ages, empty nesters, retired
Behavioral/Psychographic Information Attitudes, interests, values, what is important to the target
Heavy User Information Heavy user-specific demographics and psychographics

Step Two: Summarize the target market.

Step Three: Evaluate the appropriateness of the defined target market.

	Yes	No	Comments
Will this target market have a strong and enduring interest in the brand?
Is this target market substantial enough to support the goals?
Are there any concerns with trends of this target market?
Will this target market consider switching to the brand? Consider whether they are loyal to another brand.
Would this target market recognize themselves in this description?
Is this target market accessible? That is, can we reach them with dedicated marketing programs?

